

STATUS OF THEIR WORK

Legislature May Not Adjourn on the 15th of May.

A DIVERSITY OF OPINION

Many Think That if the Body Takes a Recess on the Date Named Much Work Will Be Left Unfinished.

Although the General Assembly has adopted a resolution providing for a recess from May 15th until late in the autumn, there is now grave doubt whether the imperative business before that body can be disposed of by date agreed upon. While there are many who express the hope that the work can be disposed of in time for adjournment until October, there is none who expresses well grounded confidence that this will be done. The purpose of the adjournment is to permit the consideration of the great mass of legislation drafted by the standing committees of the two bodies to being completed by the Committee on Final Revision and Adjustment. This committee will work in vacation, and a resolution appropriating $7,500 to defray its expenses has already passed both houses. When the General Assembly determined early in the session to undertake a complete revision of the Code, the work was divided among the regular standing committees of the two houses, and by them it is now being carried on. Several of the most important committees have completed their work, and their reports are before the body. It is now the duty of the committees to complete their work, and to report to the body. Others have not been so industrious or so expeditious.

Many Reports Pending.
In fact, many of the most important committees are yet to make reports of the portions of the Code assigned to them. The work of Code revision was undertaken in connection with that of conforming the existing statutes to the Constitution. It is a task that many anticipated. In order to ascertain the status of the work and the prospects of adjournment at the time fixed, The Times-Dispatch has made a canvass of the members of the two houses and of the various committees, and gotten statements from them as to what is yet to be done.

In the House several of the most important committees, with a large volume of work assigned to them, have not yet submitted their reports. This is true of the Committee on Chesapeake and its Tributaries, the Committee on General Laws, the Committee for Courts of Justice and others.

The House Committee on Counties, Cities and Towns, which has charge of the statutes relating to town and county government, though nearly ready, has not yet made its report. Nor has the Committee on Privileges and Elections made its report. It has a mass of statutory provisions perfecting the operation of the new suffrage plan and the conduct of elections, and primary elections, all or nearly all which will elicit some discussion on the floor of the two houses.

The House Committee on Schools and Colleges, has about finished its work, but will hold another meeting next Tuesday before the work will be ready for submission.

The House Committee on Roads and Internal Navigation is far from done yet, and has among other things a general road law to agree upon and many other matters of moment to the members and to the people generally.

The House Committee on Asylums and Prisons, also has some work yet to be done, but has about completed the draft of the work.

Finance and Banks, under the leadership of its energetic chairman, Hon. W. H. Boaz, has long ago completed its work, and it has been disposed of.

Views on Adjournment.
In the Senate the work has been but little more advanced than in the House. Judge Mann, chairman of the Privileges and Elections Committee, when asked as to the status of that committee's work, said: "I think we will be up by May 15th."

Mr. McIlwaine, chairman of the Committee for Courts of Justice, said: "Our work is all in. We are simply waiting on the House Committee. I see no reason why we can't get away by the 15th."

Mr. Barksdale, chairman of the Committee on General Laws, said: "A part of the report of the committee is already in. I do not think we can possibly get away by the 15th, and only wish we could."

Mr. Massie, chairman of the Committee on Roads and Internal Navigation, said: "There are several important matters yet to be disposed of by the committee, among them the Angel bill as to demurrage charges upon railroads, and the Clay-

For bill, proposing to hold railways responsible for transmission of freight over connecting lines, adversely reported from the committee. I hope we will be able to get away by the 15th, however."

Mr. Keeshel, chairman of the Committee on Public Institutions and Education and Fish and Game, said: "We are absolutely up on our work in both committees. I think we ought to get away by the 15th."

Mr. Wickham, chairman of the Committee on Finance and Banks, said: "All of our work is in. I hope we will be able to get away by the 15th."

Mr. Ople, chairman of the Committee on Counties, Cities and Towns, said: "The work of our committee was divided with the House Committee, which took all relating to counties and towns, while we took that relating to cities. Our report as to cities is now on the Senate Calendar. I do not think it possible for the General Assembly to complete the work that must yet be done before the recess."

Diversity of Opinion.

Mr. Wallace, chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, Mining and Manufactures, said: "Our report is not yet in. I think our prospects of getting away are rather unfavorable."

These members of the Senate, when asked as to what they thought of the prospect of getting away by the 15th, said:

Mr. Coghill: "I think it doubtful."
Mr. Shands: "It is doubtful."
Mr. Tyler: "I think we will not be able to get away before June 1st."
Mr. Chapman: "We will go on the 15th, anyhow. See what a slim attendance we have now. It will hardly be possible to keep a quorum here much longer."
Mr. St. Clair: "I see no reason why we should not get away at the time fixed."
Mr. Dinwiddie: "I do not think we will get away by the 15th."
Mr. Garrett: "I think the prospect is pretty good."
Mr. Walker: "I think it likely we will be able to adjourn by the 15th."
Mr. Ford: "I think that if we do get away by the 15th we will leave much work unfinished."
Mr. Watkins: "I do not think we can get away then."
Mr. Hobbs: "I do not see why we should not get away by the 15th."
Mr. Gold: "I think it very doubtful."
Mr. Harvey: "I think we will get away then, but we will leave much work unfinished."

MR. MORGAN'S SUCCESSOR

Name of the Rev. R. Lin Cove Is Being Talked About.

Committees have been appointed by the Seventh Street Christian Church of this city to secure a supply for the pulpit, and also to recommend a successor to the Rev. Carey E. Morgan, who recently resigned to go to Paris, Ky.

Some speculation as to the man who will be chosen to take Mr. Morgan's place is being indulged in. In this connection the name of the Rev. R. Lin Cove, of Atlanta, Ga., one of the most distinguished ministers in the denomination is being mentioned. Mr. Cove is an uncle of the Rev. Preston A. Cave, of this city, and he is now in Richmond conducting a most successful revival at the Third Christian Church.

Dr. Wallace Payne, of the University of Kansas, will preach to-day at the Seventh Street Church.

The stock is a very fine one of first-class liquors and wines.

THE MARRIAGE OF MR. HUGO DELARUE

Young Richmond Man Takes Miss Collier to North Carolina and They Wed.

The following special received by The Times-Dispatch from Elizabeth City, N. C., brought the news of the marriage there a few days ago of a well known young Richmond man to a young lady of this city:

"Mr. Hugo A. Delarue and Miss Ruby A. Collier, of Richmond, eloped to this city this week and secured a license of marriage. The register of deeds performed the ceremony and the couple returned to Richmond."

The young man could not be found last night to verify the report, nor was the residence of his bride known.

Mr. Delarue is a well known and popular attaché of the Bijou clerical force, and is a son of Mr. Gus E. Delarue, the well known Main Street restaurateur. Inquiry at his father's place of business last night brought forth the information that none of the family knew of the marriage of the young man, though they were inclined to believe the story, as they knew him to have been paying attentions for some time past to a young lady whose first name was Ruby. The young benedict himself is in the city, but could not be found last night.

Mr. Delarue is eighteen years of age and is a descendant of an old Virginia family. His business in connection with the Bijou company takes him to Norfolk each week, and he was there for several days last week, as usual, and it is believed that while down there he "stole" across the ocean with his fair one and the two of them eloped to the city. The wedding will come as a great surprise to the friends of the young people here, as up to last night the secret had been imparted to no one in this city, so far as could be learned.

Dr. Battle Here.

Dr. Henry W. Battle, formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Petersburg, passed through Richmond yesterday on his way to his new home from which he had been called to conduct a funeral service.

So far as is known the First Church has taken no definite step toward securing a successor to Dr. Battle. It is said here that the congregation would like to secure the Rev. Howard Lee Jones, of New York, brother of the Rev. M. Ashby Jones, of this city, if it were thought proper to get him to leave his present charge.

GREAT INTEREST IN CHARLEY'S AUNT

Production for the Louisiana

Conspicuous among the theatrical events of the week will be production at the Academy of Music, Wednesday, April 29th, of "Charley's Aunt," by the Dramatic Club of the University of Virginia, and "Chopsticks and Spikins," by the Lady Nioctine Stock Company for the benefit of the Louisiana and North Carolina tables of the Confederate Bazaar.

The cast of characters for "Charley's Aunt" includes: Stephen Spettigue, F. C. Harris; Colonel Sir Francis Chesney, Arlton Brawley; Jack Chesney, E. R. Schoen; Charley Wyckom, F. S. Tyler; Lord Fencourt Baberley, S. T. Caves; Brasset, P. L. Conquest; Donna Lucia de Alvedorez, R. D. Crawford; Kitty Verduin, J. P. Boogher; Amy Spettigue, Julian Osborne; Eleanor Delahay, R. N. Polard.

The curtain raiser for the 29th at the Academy will be "Chopsticks and Spikins," a farce in one act, by Paul Merritt, staged here by the Lady Nioctine Stock Company, made up of:

Samuel Spikins, of Lakewood, Mr. McAdams; Charles Chopsticks, his friend, Mr. Reed; Julia, his wife, Miss Smith; Mrs. Ironclasp, his mother-in-law, Miss Stokes; Cheek, his servant, Miss Shields; Maud, his terror, Miss Morgan.

For the benefit of the uninitiated it is stated that the scene in the play represents a morning room in Mr. Spikins' home at Lakewood; that wigs are provided by nature; that the make-up is to be done by "a Moss' house and sign painter;" that the talent is to be donated by "the Uninitiated Nerve Food Company;" the costumes "by Father," and the stage directions by George A. Kelley, because it was his only way he could be kept out of the cast.

The Lady Nioctine Stock Company has asked leave to make the following statement as:

Owing to natural, though misguided enthusiasm and exaggerated reports of the Lady Nioctine Stock Company have gained credence in Richmond. As the company's policy is to stand entirely on its own merits, the management takes this opportunity to state that the company has been brought to its notice.

The date of our company's formation is unknown, but the claim has never been fully substantiated that an unbroken line can be traced back to the hand of players in which Shakespeare ennobled himself. We claim nothing we cannot prove.

Our mammoth $1,000.00 street parade with eighteen brass bands, cages of wild and untrained animals, dens of ferocious beasts, and a host of other horrors in their native haunts and the only educated press agent in captivity, will take place, not on the day of the entertainment as rumored, but on April 31st, at 12:30 A. M., rain or shine. Don't miss it.

It is absolutely untrue that the company contemplates buying the Pennsylvania Railroad system. We have no desire to own a mile of track; and our ten private trains afford us ample accommodation. When we need more, we will build them.

There is no cause to fear anything in the nature of a panic on the evening of April 29th, as our usual arrangements for handling vast crowds will prevail. A large corps of painters is now at work on "Chopsticks and Spikins" signs. The apartment house is filled (probably early in the afternoon), these will be displayed in all parts of the city and outlying districts. So when the curtain rises at 8:15 o'clock the streets in the neighborhood of the Academy will not be over-crowded.

A special feature for the comfort of our patrons is the lung testing machine for infants, which will be found in the lobby. Any baby whose vocal power exceeds that of the stage, will be elected to the lobby property by Brown and Company, where he will be provided with one paper of No. 6 carpet tacks for his diversion.

Have you forgotten the date? It is Wednesday, April 29th. Get the box office, 50 and 75 cents; no higher.

RAISE THE RATES.

As usual, the Legislatures of several States have made laws increasing the taxes or other expenses of fire insurance companies. These bills are introduced and advocated by members who want promotion to higher offices and seek popularity with voters by fighting corporations. It is an easy and safe way to appeal to the ignorance of their constituents.

But what is the effect of unfriendly legislation on the companies? Can they maintain their solvency after meeting these new and onerous burdens? Only in one way. A sufficient increase must be made to the fire insurance rate to pay all losses, all taxes and all of the expenses of doing business. The new laws cause the voter to pay more than he did before his popular neighbor was elected to the Legislature, pledged to fight, tax and annoy solvent fire insurance companies.—Insurance Magazine.
